Specialist Gastroenterologist in France (Pays de la Loire)

A healthcare centre belonging to a renowned healthcare group and located in a city in the Vendée department, in the Pays de la Loire region of western France, is looking to recruit five self-employed gastroenterologists to strengthen its medical team and continue developing its services.

About the healthcare centre

- A leading healthcare centre offering close and direct collaboration between medical and healthcare teams.
- Modern, high-level technical facilities, renovated in 2022, including an emergency department and 12 operating theatres, 2 of which are dedicated to endoscopy.
- A multidisciplinary environment that promotes daily collaboration with surgeons, anaesthetists and other specialists within the centre.
- A structured and collaborative organisation allowing doctors to develop a diverse medical practice.
- High demand for specialists: gastroenterologists currently working at the clinic are experiencing a high volume of patient demand, with an estimated 4-to-6-month waiting period for new patients.

Working conditions

As a self-employed gastroenterologist, your activity will be organised as follows:

- 2 days per week dedicated to Gastroenterology consultations.
- 2 to 3 days per week, depending on your level of activity, dedicated to outpatient procedures and operating theatre activity, particularly colonoscopies, fibroscopies and gastroscopies.
- Participation in the local on-call system, approximately 1 week every 5 weeks, including weekends.
- Integration into a fully operational organisation alongside other highly experienced gastroenterologists who are well established within the medical team.
- A high degree of autonomy in organising your working hours.

In addition, support will be provided for:

- Setting up your self-employed activity and completing the procedures related to your professional status.
- Your integration into the medical team.
- Administrative procedures related to your arrival, including support with the preparation and follow-up of the documentation required for registration with the French Medical Council (Ordre des Médecins).
- Your relocation to France, with local support and guidance.
- The medical practice, secretarial services, technical facilities and patient activity are already fully operational, allowing you to quickly focus on your medical practice without having to build a structure from scratch.
- High patient demand: thanks to the strong demand for gastroenterology services, you can start your activity quickly and have immediate potential to develop your own patient base.

Financial conditions

- Estimated professional income is between €10,000 and €15,000 per month*, after deduction of all professional expenses.
- As a self-employed practitioner, your income will be generated through your operating theatre activity, outpatient procedures and consultations.
- The doctor is responsible for the expenses associated with their professional activity, including, in particular, their share of the costs of medical supplies, administrative staff and use of the facilities.

These figures are indicative, depend on the professional's level of activity and do not constitute a guarantee of income.*

Requirements:

We are looking for gastroenterologists who have:

- An official medical degree.
- Specialist training in Gastroenterology obtained through the MIR system.
- Nationality of a European Union member state.
- Relevant professional experience is valued. Doctors with limited professional experience are also welcome. Extensive previous experience is not essential.
- A dynamic, organised approach and the ability to work as part of a team.
- A willingness to live and work in France as part of a stable, long-term professional project.
- B2 level of French. If you do not currently have the required level, we offer a tailored language and cultural training programme to help you prepare and successfully integrate into your new professional environment.

If you are looking to grow professionally in a secure environment, with strong career prospects and long-term stability, this opportunity could be for you.

With the support of Global Working

- Specific French-language training for healthcare professionals.
- More than 2,000 Global Workers currently working across Europe.
- Support throughout the entire process, including recognition of qualifications and relocation to your destination country.
- ISO 9001 certification in recruitment and professional integration training in Europe.

Register with us and we will explain how you can build your professional future in France.
We invite you to discover the experiences of our Global Workers by visiting our Instagram account @global_working.

Find out more about this opportunity here: Specialist Gastroenterologist in France

Send your CV to amalia.pico@globalworking.net